Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHBP)

The FEHBP offers an employee a practical way to help meet the cost of healthcare. New employees have 60 days from commencement of employment to enroll. Health insurance coverage is effective at the beginning of the following pay period in which the employee enrolls through Judiciary Benefits Center. The Government shares the cost of the total premium up to 75% regardless of the plan the employee selects. Also, employees are able to participate in the judiciary's Premium Payment Plan which allows for payment of health premiums on a pre-tax basis.

If an employee waives their health insurance entitlement and later decides to participate in the Program, the employee must wait until the annual open season (early November - effective the first pay period in January) or experience a Qualifying Life Event (e.g. birth of child, marriage, divorce, etc.) to become eligible for enrollment.

Federal Employees Group Life Insurance Program (FEGSLIP)

New employees are automatically enrolled in the Basic Option of the FEGSLIP unless the employee opts to waive insurance entitlement. If an employee waives their insurance entitlement and later decides to participate in the plan, the employee must wait until an open enrollment period (undetermined) or obtain a physical from a certified physician before becoming eligible for enrollment. The life insurance plan also offers employees the option to enroll in three additional levels beyond the Basic level: Standard, Additional, and Family. The Government pays one third of the cost of the employee's Basic term life insurance.

Federal Employees Dental and Vision Program (FEDVIP)

The FEDVIP is available to an employee and eligible family members on an enrollee-pay all basis. This program allows dental and vision insurance to have competitive premiums and no pre-existing condition limitations. Premiums for enrollees are deducted on a pre-tax basis.

An employee may enroll in a dental plan and/or vision plan. Enrollment options include: Self-only, Self-Plus one, or Self and Family. Eligible family members include an enrollee's spouse and unmarried dependent children under the age of 22, or if age 22 or older, incapable of self-support.

Flexible Benefits Program

A Flexible Spending Account (FSA) is a benefit which allows an employee to pay for a variety of out-of-pocket expenses with pre-tax money.

The Federal Judiciary Flexible Benefit Program consists of three separate tax-favored plans:

The Premium Payment Plan allows an employee to choose between having their health insurance premium deducted on a pre-tax or post-tax basis; premiums will automatically be deducted on a pre-tax basis unless the employee chooses otherwise.

The Health Care Reimbursement Account allows an employee to set aside pre-taxed money, up to $3,300 annually, to reimburse costs that are not covered by the medical, dental, or optical portion of the employee's health insurance.

The Limited Purpose Health Care Reimbursement Account allows an employee to set aside pre-tax money, up to $3,300, to reimburse eligible dental and vision expenses. This account is for employees enrolled in a High Deductible Health Plan.

The Dependent Care Reimbursement Account allows an employee to set aside pre-taxed dollars from their paycheck, up to $5,000 annually, to cover dependent care expenses incurred as a result of the employee and his or her spouse working or seeking employment, or the employee's spouse attending school full-time.

Transit Subsidy Program

If budgetary resources permit, the Clerk's Office may provide employees with a tax-free monthly benefit that may be used to help pay for mass transit costs. The Clerk's Office receives no additional funding for this benefit. Its cost is paid for by savings in the Clerk's Office budget.

Each transit card is to be applied to the cost of transportation to work incurred by the employee during the month for which the check is issued. Employees must pick up the monthly card by the close of business on the 15th of the month, or by the preceding business day where the 15th falls on a weekend or legal holiday. Employees are required to personally sign for their transit card. In doing so, the employee is acknowledging that he or she will personally use the transit card for public transportation to commute to work, and further certifies that he or she understands that to sell, trade, or donate the transit check would be a violation of federal law. If the card exceeds monthly commute expenses, then the cards are to be returned to HR with the unused amount.
