Court Launches New Websites with Streamlined Navigation

Chicago, Ill. – This past weekend, the Court’s website (<https://www.ilnd.uscourts.gov>) was updated with a modern, refreshed design that enhances accessibility and efficiency. The Probation Office (<https://www.ilnp.uscourts.gov>) and Pretrial Services (<https://www.ilnpt.uscourts.gov>) websites have also been updated with the same modern look. The new sites feature a sleek aesthetic and stream-lined navigation, making it easier for the public to find and access court services.

Key improvements include:

- Multi-language support improves accessibility across languages
- Mobile responsiveness allows users to seamlessly adapt across devices
- Streamlined navigation groups resources and links more intuitively, allowing users find what they need faster

“Many thanks to former Chief Judge Pallmeyer who led the initiative to modernize the website,” said Chief Judge Virginia M. Kendall.

“This new, quicker, more efficient, and visually appealing website furthers the Clerk’s Office’s mission of providing the highest level of service to the Court and all people having business before the Court,” said Clerk of Court Thomas G. Bruton.
